ALAMO GOLF DEN ^ PIN2WIN

A practical roadmap to bring more local golfers into the challenge.

This playbook gives Alamo Golf Den and Pin2Win a repeatable way to create awareness, turn local attention into simulator bookings, and convert those visits into challenge entries. The approach is built around clear calls to action, short-form video, venue promotion, local targeting, and weekly measurement.

What success looks like

Awareness

Local golfers recognize the challenge and understand the prize, price, and location.

Action

People click through, book a bay, scan the QR code, and complete an entry.

Experience

Customers can move from payment to E6 play without confusion.

Momentum

Results, reactions, and leaderboard updates create reasons to return.

Launch Foundations

1. Make the message unmistakable

Every post should answer four questions quickly: What is it? Where is it? What does it cost? What should I do next? Keep the language consistent across Pin2Win, Alamo Golf Den, creator posts, and paid ads.

RECOMMENDED MESSAGE

Think you can stick one? Book your bay at Alamo Golf Den, scan the Pin2Win QR code onsite, and take five shots for $20.

2. Build one trackable campaign

â€¢ Use the same challenge landing page everywhere, with separate UTM tags for Instagram, TikTok, Facebook, Alamo Golf Den, and creator partners.

â€¢ Track landing-page visits, venue bookings, QR scans, paid entries, completed attempts, and repeat plays.

â€¢ Judge campaigns by paid entries and completed attempts, not likes alone.

3. Activate the venue

Staff invitation

Ask staff to mention the challenge at check-in and after a customer finishes a bay session.

Physical placement

Place the QR poster and the customer steps poster together where customers wait or check in.

Booking touchpoints

Add the challenge to the venue website, booking confirmation language, and social profile.

Reshares

Have Alamo reshare Pin2Win videos, participant reactions, and leaderboard updates.

4. Use local proof

The best early content is real and local: the simulator, the target, the five-shot sequence, near-misses, customer reactions, and the current best result. Ask permission before reposting customer images or videos.

Four-Week Content Plan

Week	Objective	Recommended content	Primary CTA
Week 1	Awareness	Venue reveal, challenge announcement, simulator footage, poll: Would you take the shot?	Book at Alamo Golf Den
Week 2	Demonstration	Five-shot attempt, near-misses, E6 walkthrough, customer steps graphic	See how it works
Week 3	Social proof	Participant reactions, best attempts, leaderboard updates, friend tags	Bring someone to try
Week 4	Urgency	Countdowns, last-weekend reminders, current best result, group outing angle	Book before it ends

Suggested weekly cadence

- 1
- Three short vertical videos showing the challenge, venue, or reactions.
- 2
- Two supporting photo or graphic posts with a clear local call to action.
- 3
- Stories on active challenge days with polls, countdowns, and reshares.
- 4
- One weekly leaderboard or best-attempt update.

Short-form video prompts

The fifth shot

POV: your fifth shot is the one. Show the swing, ball flight, and reaction.

Would you take it?

Ask a local golfer to predict whether they can make the shot before trying.

Five shots, one chance

Show the full attempt quickly with a simple score or result overlay.

E6 access

Show the event tab and explain that the code appears after payment is confirmed.

Distribution and Partnerships

Local paid media

Start with a small test budget within roughly 5â 15 miles of Alamo Golf Den. Test several vertical videos and move budget toward the creative that produces landing-page visits, QR scans, and paid entries.

â€ Target golf, indoor golf, simulator venues, Topgolf, sports entertainment, date nights, and local events.

â€ Use one clear action per ad: Book your bay, Try the challenge, or Bring a friend.

â€ Refresh creative when frequency rises or click-through declines.

Local creator program

- 1

Invite San Antonio golf, sports, and entertainment creators for a supervised complimentary attempt.
- 2

Give each creator the same facts: location, price, five shots, payment flow, QR requirement, and booking link.
- 3

Ask them to show the actual venue, attempt, reaction, and next step rather than only a promotional graphic.
- 4

Require clear disclosure for gifted or sponsored participation where applicable.

CREATOR BRIEF

Show the venue. Explain the five-shot challenge. Capture the attempt and reaction. Tell viewers to book Alamo Golf Den first, then scan the onsite QR code.

Measurement and Weekly Review

The funnel to monitor

Stage	What to measure	If it is weak
Awareness	Video views and reach	Improve the hook, local relevance, and first three seconds.
Interest	Profile visits and link clicks	Make the offer, location, price, and action clearer.
Intent	Landing-page visits and venue bookings	Reduce friction and strengthen the booking CTA.
Entry	QR scans and paid entries	Review onsite signage, staff prompts, and checkout clarity.
Completion	E6 attempts and submitted results	Make event-code and result-entry instructions more visible.
Repeat	Play-again clicks and repeat entries	Follow up with results, leaderboard updates, and limited-time urgency.

Weekly decision rules

- ⚡ High views but low clicks: revise the hook and call to action.
- ⚡ High clicks but low bookings: improve the offer or booking handoff.
- ⚡ High QR scans but low payments: simplify the account and Square experience.
- ⚡ High payments but low completed attempts: improve staff prompts and E6 instructions.
- ⚡ Strong first plays but weak repeats: feature results and make the next attempt easy to start.

PARTNER CHECK-IN

Review the numbers once each week, choose the best-performing content, identify the biggest drop-off, and make one focused improvement before the next review.
